

Prepare for the worst that can happen
during calving season.

In this short, evening course, we will help you identify calving problems and learn how to solve them. We will also discuss cow and calf care around calving time.

A hands-on lab portion allows you to visualize and hone necessary OB skills, while in a relaxed environment.

Calving School

A short course on obstetrical issues
faced by producers

January 19, 2017
Cordova Civic Center
6:00 – 9:00 pm

Education

At the River View Veterinary Service, we are committed to quality, practical education, both for the staff and for our clients. That's why we offer our Calving School every spring, prior to the start of most calving seasons.

Calving School

At our Calving School, we focus on obstetrical issues faced by producers. Our goal is to teach how to identify a problem and what can be done to fix it. We talk about everything from a normal delivery to cesarean sections.

We also touch upon nutrition and care of the cow during the pre-partum and post-partum periods, as well as calf care during the first 24 hours. A hands-on lab portion allows producers to practice their OB techniques with a calving box and calf.

What is the benefit?

Learn about the possible problems that may be faced during calving season in a relaxed environment where questions are welcomed! More experienced producers can share their knowledge with others, while gaining the newest information and polishing old skills.

Let's get planning for a better calving season!

Just bring yourself and your questions!

We know how difficult it can be to get the chores done and get anywhere on time. We will do our best to help! We will provide the information, the supplies for the lab portion, and dinner. All you need to provide is your questions.

RSVP by January 10

Please send us your RSVP to rvvscustomerservice@gmail.com or call us at 309.848.9093 by January 10 to reserve your spot! Did we mention it's free?

Dinner is served!

A full dinner will be served starting at 6:00 pm. A brief presentation with a question and answer session will take place during dinner with the hands-on lab portion to follow.
